Communication USP & Audience Segmentation

Connectivity

What are we hammering on?

At the core of the application lies connectivity — not just between users and listings, but between people, decisions, and outcomes. The platform is designed to close the distance between buyers, agents, brokerages, and developers, creating a centralized ecosystem where everything — and everyone — is within reach.

It connects buyers to the right properties faster, agents to qualified leads instantly, and partners to a shared network of real-time data, project visibility, and performance tools. With seamless in-app communication, live updates, and intuitive access to all necessary information, the app eliminates traditional friction points — calls, emails, delays — and replaces them with instant, reliable, and intelligent connections.

In an industry that often feels disconnected and scattered, the app brings everything — and everyone — together in one place. But beyond speed and access, it also creates a sense of closeness and belonging. By making the real estate experience more personalized, more responsive, and more human, it helps people feel seen, supported, and connected to something bigger than just a transaction. It's not just about tech — it's about bringing people closer to their goals, to each other, and to where they truly belong.

Audience Segmentation

Who are we connecting to?

Introducing the gateway to personalized and connected real estate. Now, communication doesn't just flow one way (broker to client) but rather both ways (client to broker and broker to client). This leads to connection, understanding, and personalization, all leading up to connectivity.

Core Clients

We're connecting with our core clients by simplifying their decision-making process—giving them the choice to go broker-free if they want.

Internal

Employees, leaders and team members who need alignment with company strategy. Who will feel even more empowered when there is a clear brand identity presented to them - which leads to feeling empowered & subsequently connected to TAI.

Partners

we are connecting our partners (developers) with our clients by showcasing their projects in one platform, therefore easing the experience for both parties & giving them more feasibility.

The Competition

Instead of taking the approach of surpassing our competitors, we are embracing them in an attempt to connect more to the market while still keeping our position as leaders.
